The La Grande Standard of the 7th reports the weather has for once it had been for two weeks

The Commissioners of Union county have purchased a safe for the use of the County Treasurer

The States man intimates that a "winter of discontent" has settled upon the Salem real estate market

The manipulators of pasteboard have pretty generally exhausted from La Grande and gone to Baker City

Two new saw mills have been built in Union county this fall, supplying a want much felt in that prosperous and growing section of the country

In lower Wallowa Valley Union county, the snow was about two feet deep two weeks ago Who wouldn't be a webfoot, in view of such things

The late cold weather did not stop improvements in Baker City, some eight or ten buildings have been raised within the last two weeks Carpenters are all crowded with work

Our State contemporaries generally contain notices of festivities to be held among the people on the approaching holidays Festivals, social parties, balls, etc, will rule the day

There is a Union county poet who writes poetry over the nom de plume of "Greenswood," but what's the difference whether the author be Greenswood or Joaquin, if the poetry is good

A project is on foot to carry a portion of the water of Umatilla river into Pine creek, through a large ditch This is to be done for the purpose of furnishing water power at Weston, in Umatilla county

The Democrat says "The Baker City Academy commenced the second term of the year last week, with very flattering prospects, numbering nearly fifty" "Fifty prospects" is good We know another school which has over a hundred

The Mountain Sentinel says "Monte is the fashionable gambling game in Eastern Oregon In Baker City, we are informed every fifth man who can toll a deck from an ace, is dealing the game, the professional ebony legs being forced to take a back seat while the fun goes on

The Democrat says that the report of a scarcity of feed for stock in Eastern Oregon loes not apply to Baker Grant, Umatilla or Union county Our report of the matter was culled from a correspondence published in the Mountaineer, which claimed to give facts We are glad to know that it does not apply generally

The Bedrock Democrat says "We were shown a piece of rock picked up on the dump of the Virtue mine the other day, not as large as a man's double fist, that it is calculated contains $200 in gold and the gentleman who picked it up says there is plenty more there in the mine, as good as the piece picked up, and we believe him

The Statesman heads an item "Litigant Organs Made Here," and says "The Governor has concluded that the Monmouth Messenger has no vested right as a litigant organ which he is bound to respect. At all events, that paper has been divested of its litigant vestments and its mantle has been bestowed upon the Dallas Republican The Messenger is a messenger of peace and good will to men, and it may be that it had itself concluded that its connection with the litigant business was defilement, it may have resigned Be this as it may, the Republican is now an organ, and hath a "franchise" It may be happy yet The Governor has re appointed the Benton Democrat litigant organ for Benton county, and the Times for Jackson county. These organs charge their spots so often that it keeps the Commission business hot for the Governor"

Calumny—Does it Pay!

Under the above heading, Vice President Colfax gives the Independent an article on the late Presidential campaign The opening paragraphs which we chip out exhibit the campaign in a light not the most flattering to those "reformers who shaped the course of the opposition to the Administration

Never has it been proven more unanswerably that calumny does not pay to a political campaign than in the canvass which has recently closed Unfortunately, no party can ever trust fully claims that all its advocates and spokesmen, in the press and on the hustings, are entirely just to political opponents For as the fate of nearly all public men to be too harshly judged by one half of our millions of voters, often though this may be by being too flatteringly esteemed by the other half And all of them expect to be misunderstood, if not misrepresented

But the animus of the campaign against the Republican party and its representative men was so plainly marked as to its unmistakable In the opening of the campaign last spring and summer, Amnesty and the Civil Service Reform were the main themes on which the opposition sought votes and their personal warfare was concentrated on one man—General Grant As the campaign progressed, however, it became more and more evident, for many reasons—the General Amnesty bill passed by Congress in June and the advocacy of Civil Service Reform by the President himself being conspicuous—that these two battle cries could have but little popular effect. The personal attacks on General Grant had been so long before the public, and had been so often explained or refuted, they had become as devoid of influence as they were of novelty And then the fire opened along the whole opposition line against nearly all of the most active and influential men in the Republican party—those who had been most prominent in its many contests against slavery and the Rebellion, against Johnson's Reconstruction policy, and for the Constitutional Amendments It seemed as if a general order had been issued 'Blacken and vilify, aspersion and destroy the character of every prominent Republican who adheres to the Republican organization" How persistently and bitterly this kind of warfare was kept up need not be detailed An impartial observer would have supposed if he could have believed the charges, that a Republican Congress was but another name for a charnal house of corruption, that all its prominent legislation was carried through by the wickedest bribery and fraud and that of its prominent members were tainted with the vilest dishonor Month after month such charges were reiterated, elaborated amplified, intensified, till foreigners must have supposed our Capitol was a den of thieves and its inmates worthier of membership in a penitentiary

A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser in a letter that bears evidence of familiarity with the condition and progress of the Northern Pacific Railway enterprise and with the plans and purposes of the Company, thus speaks of the question whether the road will be pushed on from the Missouri river westward next summer

The Northern Pacific rests this winter on the banks of the Missouri Whether it will take up its advance westward with the opening of spring is undecided, but I find a well defined and general expectation along the line that a half of a year or two may be made There are several reasons why a Fabian policy at the present time and in the present condition of affairs may be the wisest In the first place the road now completed in the entire business of the northwest as effectually as would be possible with the extension to the Yellowstone completed and with a short section of narrow gauge road around the falls of Missouri above Fort Benton and which can be laid in thirty days will push its boats five hundred miles further up to Gallatin City and dispute with the Union Pacific the entire carrying trade of Montana What this is worth may be estimated from the fact that eighty thousand tons of freight were hauled by ox and mule teams last year from Kulton on the Central Pacific to Helena in Montana

By Overland Telegraph.

Hazard Stevens, of Olympia, in behalf of the N P R R Co, offers to sell to loggers the right to cut and appropriate to their own use, standing timber on any of the odd sections of land claimed by the Company around Puget Sound, at the rate of $1 per thousand feet, payable partly in advance and the balance as the logs are scaled in the boom before removal

The Seattle Dispatch says "Capt McGuire, of the barkentine W H Gazley arrived at Port Madison on Monday, and reports that he passed within forty feet of a vessel bottom up about forty miles south of the cape He could not make out the name of the vessel, but there is a strong probability that it was the Walter Raleigh, missing for six or six weeks on board of which was Capt Hanson and family, all of whom are probably lost

The Olympia Courier says "Gov L P Ferry received a dispatch last Monday from Hon Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State, stating that by the withdrawal of the British forces from San Juan and other small islands adjacent, that have been in dispute between England and the United States, these islands have passed into the peaceable possession of the American authorities The Governor will take immediate steps to re establish civil authority on these islands, and we understand will proceed to San Juan in person in a few days This will be good news to the settlers on those islands, and the settlement of the dispute and re establishment of civil authority will give a certainty and security to the inhabitants of those islands that they have not heretofore enjoyed, and the change will be perceptible in an increase of both business and population."

FRIDAY MORNING DEC 13 1872

Santo Domingo Again

A short time ago there was started just how or where nobody knows a story that certain capitalists had made overtures about to make proposals to President Grant for the purchase of Samana Bay Out of this rumor which was itself in all probability made of whole cloth, and out of some general discussion through the press of the advantages and disadvantages that might accrue to the United States from the possession of Santo Domingo there has arisen a report that the Administration proposes to revive the Santo Domingo scheme and endeavor to secure the reversal by Congress of its former decision The opposition journals have caught up this rumor, first put into shape by some one of them, no doubt and are passing paragraphs on the subject from hand to hand, with such unfriendly amplification and comment as the proposition suggests—or rather, such as it seems to furnish a pretext for

That the President was very desirous of securing Santo Domingo, no one pretends to deny. Nor is it supposed that his opinion of the policy of the acquisition has undergone any change He believed that the project was one which, if carried out would be productive of great benefit to the United States, and in that opinion many of the prominent men of the country concurred with him But a majority of the nation, or of its representatives, at least, thought differently and the purchase fell President Grant's course thereafter, was in accordance with what what has been the chief distinguishing characteristic of his administration He had no policy to enforce against the wishes of the country. He gave up the Santo Domingo scheme cheerfully, though doubtless regretfully, and has never alluded to it since That he has the moral and political right to bring it forward again, nobody can deny, and no one who has read the history of this country to much purpose, would consider it an unprecedented thing, if he should do so But there is not a syllable of evidence that he contemplates a revival of the proposition The present discussion of the question is wholly outside of Government circles. The question is of commercial importance and will continue to be discussed in commercial circles, but for this fact the President is in no manner responsible,

The question of annexation is just in the same position as if nothing had ever been done about it, and its policy is a legitimate subject of consideration still if it ever was And, if the President, prompted, not by greed of territory, but by a conviction of the commercial importance of the matter, chooses to direct the attention of Congress to it again at this or any future time, there is no good reason why he should not do so When he repeatedly urges upon Congress the adoption of measures to increase the efficiency of the Navy, or for the encouragement of foreign trade, or for securing better facilities for our inter state commerce, no one thinks of branding his conduct as a species of political jobbery, notwithstanding Congress may give no heed whatever to his recommendations, or may expressly overrule his views.

It is not a rational or settled conviction of the impolicy of acquiring Santo Domingo, that inspires the strictures of the opposition press. If it were, they would be willing to accept rumors as rumors, and discuss the question as simply one that is being agitated more or less by the public, instead of moulding a piece of sheer gossip, regardless of the only evidence in the premises into semi official givings-out of the President It is not the Santo Domingo question, or any prospect of the annexation of that kingdom to the United States, that exercises the minds and excites the indignation of the opposition That which troubles them is the successes of the Republican party. Show them that the acquisition of Santo Domingo would result in the overthrow of the Republican party and their journals could not find room enough for all the cogent reasons that could be given why the purchase should be effected at once and at any cost

An Apology

Some time since we stated, on the authority of the Olympia Courier, that rents in that town were high and still there were houses in the place without tenants The Olympia Tribune thereupon pronounced the statement untrue, and we replied that this raised a question of veracity between the Olympia journals. The Tribune now returns to the charge with decidedly more zeal than either courtesy or discretion, declaring that the OREGONIAN is and always has been an enemy of Olympia by reason of local jealousy We beg the irate Tribune not to suppose for a moment we have the slightest enmity toward our neighboring city We have always been swift to do justice to Olympia in the way of giving circulation and publicity to all facts of interest in regard to the place and its prospects. And as to the idea of our regarding Olympia as a present or prospective rival of Portland, we never had thought of such a thing There is certainly room enough for both Portland and Olympia to grow for a generation or so yet, without any danger of confusion of their municipal boundaries We think we express the sentiment of the people of Portland pretty accurately, when we disavow all intention or disposition to extend the corporate limits of our city any further north than the Columbia river And if Olympia has not sufficient room on the north side of that stream, for the development of her best proportions, we might even be induced to surrender ten or fifteen miles of our proposed north extension—making it up on the south of course—so as to leave a slice of that size south of the river for Olympia

We repeat that the correctness or incorrectness of the item we published is a question of veracity between the Courier and the Tribune, and the only evidence we have as to who is at fault is the manifestation of ill temper on the part of the Tribune which is usually the result, or at least the accompaniment, of the consciousness of being in the wrong. We trust the Tribune will be satisfied with this apology, which is most cheerfully made

Edwin Forrest, the celebrated American actor, fell dead yesterday at his residence in Philadelphia He was in the 67th year of his age Twenty years ago, Forrest was the foremost actor of the American stage, and had no inconsiderable reputation in English dramatic circles having at three several times made extended visits to that country in connection with his profession. Stone's play entitled "Metamora," which is still popular with American audiences, was written expressly for Forrest, and he excelled all other actors in the character of Metamora His strength on the stage was in the rendition of strong characters He retired from the stage in 1858 having laid up a competency, and has since that time lived the life of a quiet gentleman of fortune and leisure taking little part in any business affairs with the exception of such attention as he gave to the litigated suit common again him by his wife in 1851 and which lasted nearly two years

The Postmaster of the United States at Washington commissioners are established in Washington city, which will hereafter be known as the Post Office Department building, and which has been comfortably fitted up for the use of the Commissioners upon the first floor in front is the business office back of it an office where a corps of clerks are busy continually putting up subscription books pamphlets and addresses to be sent to all sections of the country This work goes on day and night

Each National Bank in the United States receives subscription books certificates, and all other necessary papers for the discharge of its duties in connection with the Commission from this general office Professor Blake the Executive Commissioner, has his office on the second floor and is engaged all the time, in the various duties that devolve upon him as general supervisor of the work The plan for the celebration contemplates the erection of buildings covering fifty six acres of ground

The Rev. Samuel Watson of Tennessee a Methodist minister has written a book entitled The Clock Struck One, which has brethren in the Conference consider heretical, and as a defense of spiritualism The author has been required to apologize and promises to withdraw the book from publication as rapidly as possible Of course this proceeding will cause the book to have a great many readers, who never would have thought of being such, had it been allowed to pass unnoticed into that oblivion which holds so many of its predecessors The title of the book ought to have been a sufficient guaranty that there was nothing in it that could possibly live

The Postmaster General estimates the cost of purchasing the telegraph lines of the country at $12,000,000, and the Congressional Committee "after a postal examination of the subject," put the cost at $30,000,000 The Pittsburgh Leader says it seems probable that the Postmaster General looking only at the advantages, and the Congressional Committee only at the expense of the undertaking, have made about equal errors in their estimates, and that the truth as in this case, as in so many others, lies about in the middle, in other words, that about twenty million dollars would purchase all the lines and be a fair price for them

It is estimated that not less than 12,000 000 acres of the most fertile of agricultural lands, in the Red River valley, have been opened up to settlement by the construction of the Northern Pacific Railway through that valley The resources of the State of Minnesota and the region to the west of that State are just beginning to be understood The forests of pine and spruce through which the road passes are already supporting a large trade with the vast prairies of the Northwest, which is destined to increase rapidly as the population of the country increases

A letter from Henry H Mapes, Esq., of Kalamazoo, Michigan, dated November 30th, says wheat is selling there at $1 60 to $1 75 per bushel The crops sown last fall are looking well—or were before they were covered with the snow. The unusual drought of last summer caused a scarcity of provender in that country which is likely to be seriously felt if the winter should be severe

Before Governor Lindsey, of Alabama, went out of office, he recognized the Democratic crowd as the lawful Legislature of the State Governor Lewis, his successor, proves to be a Pharaoh that knows not Joseph He declines to have any official communication with the "rump" Legislature

FROM McMINNVILLE

McMINNVILLE, Dec 10 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

An article in your local column of this morning does such injustice to estimable citizens of our village as to oblige reference to a subject that must necessarily be painful to all concerned. Speaking of the villain Pascal Smith and his victim, the writer throws blame on the relatives for not having him brought back on a requisition from California Now I learn from the gentleman who followed the fugitives to Portland and telegraphed to San Francisco for their arrest that on being notified by the authorities at that place, of Smith's capture, he consulted one of the foremost lawyers in Portland, and was advised to let him go The girl having passed sixteen, there was no punishment for the man The villain had managed his scheme so well that no vigilance could prevent the crime and the law provides no punishment to prevent others of the same kind Simple justice demands that we should not add a weight of needless blame to the load of sorrow and pain already felt by the family of the poor girl

Again Mr Editor you say she is coming back "to droop and die" or lead a life of living death What meanness and what injustice "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone at her," was the command of One who knew what it is to be tempted and if we obey the command will He not again say "Neither I condemn thee Go in peace and sin no more" as He did of old The laws of malicious society and the tattling tongues of the evil minded slay the orphan child but not die, but the law of God the gentle doctrines of Christ and the voice of our better humanity all tell her that peace and love and life of usefulness are open before the one who sins but repents and will lead a consistent life hereafter

Unless thoughtless rentals of newspapers and thoughtless hearers can terrify her away from coming home Ellen Shadden will be met by loving though sorrowing friends and will be helped to atone by a life of usefulness for the error of her youth Let us hear no more of condemning this girl that the sinner cannot be forgiven by erring fellow mortals and we shall have less of sin and misery in the world

These reflections on the result of the late election are from the Philadelphia Press

One paramount reality impresses every careful observer of the face of the late Presidential election The party so successfully put down by the public in party has not yet been converted Its principles of sentiments, instead of the native, its absurd interest experience has proved that in such a struggle as that which has just closed the people have not been diverted from the real objects Point by what are called side issues especially is that clearly true in the patriotically aggressive Democratic cry against the tariff, no demand for Civil Service reform, no personal spite or scandal can turn them from their unalterable purpose. They even swallow odious subordinate candidates in the resolve to reelect a President who has been faithful to his mission The lesson is useful, and well worth the consideration of the statesman Theories perish before a logic so stern and severe And no party, alike the one that has won, and the other yet to be born can afford to disregard the double example and warning

CITY.

ATTEMPT TO RUN OFF.—A narrow escape from a serious accident occurred yesterday morning about eight o'clock, at the intersection of L and Water streets, East Portland. At that hour the regular passenger train came up from the depot, bound southward. A team of mules was standing near the landing waiting for the ferry boat. The mules were attached to a wagon, in which were seated a farmer and his wife. Born and reared in blissful ignorance of the existence of such an infernal contrivance as a train, these donkeys were appalled at the roar and puffing of the locomotive. True to their instincts of progress, the mules instead of running forward, commenced to back. The vehicle soon came in collision with the railing on the edge of the bridge. Both animals pulled back as hard as their united strength would permit, but the railing fortunately proved too strong. It yielded almost to breaking several times, but held team and wagon. Of course the lady was frightened, and started to jump out several times. The husband restrained her each time, with assurances that the railing would prove equal to the emergency. Very soon the train passed out of sight, but those willful creatures, with an obstinacy worthy of a better cause, continued to doggedly pull backwards as long as the spasmodic cough of the locomotive could be heard, after which they reversed action. From the bridge to the ground, at that point, the distance is about 15 feet, and the serious consequences can be easily imagined by the frail protection at the edge had given away.

RIGHTLY SERVED.—A member of the Smith family was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of conducting himself in a disorderly manner in the theater on Wednesday evening. The defendant it appears came to the head of the stairs with a cigar in his mouth. He was reminded by the doorkeeper, Mr. Williams, that smoking was strictly forbidden in the theater. Smith threw down the cigar and walked into the pit. Soon he drew out another cigar and deliberately lighted it. Williams went to him and again requested him to desist from smoking. To this Smith refused to comply, using some very profane and abusive epithets towards Williams. The doorkeeper snatched the cigar away and walked back. Smith receiving pot to be outdone, drew out an old pipe from his pocket and began to smoke that. He was then requested to leave the theater, which he likewise refused to do. A policeman was sent for, and the requisite force employed to remove him from the theater, but not until the whole audience was disturbed, and their attention distracted by the struggle. Judge Denny gave the offender, who, according to his own admission, was not under the influence of liquor, a severe reprimand, and to make the lesson more fruitful of good results in the future, fined him $20 and costs. Some people think it exceedingly smart to set at defiance the established rules of the theater, but they generally come out the small end of the horn.

UNLIKE CRIME.—Crime is an unfortunate thing in all respects, more especially in its moral results on community. But there is such a thing as rendering crime, after its commission, of some service to the public, which in a measure palliates the degree, and robs it of some of its more repulsive features. For instance it is a very bad thing for a fellow to get drunk and be picked up from the gutter; it is also very bad for the same fellow to be arraigned in the Police Court, and fined for such undignified conduct, it is like wise unfortunate for the identical chap, who is unable to pay his fine, to be compelled to take a shovel and hoe and scrape the muddy crossings. But then it is a public convenience to have nice clean sidewalks and aprons, and it is also an accommodation to the tax payers to have all the wood used about the city jail sawn to the proper lengths and split—say, without any cost. Yesterday we observed a large gang of these offenders at the Police Court building, plying the buck saw vigorously, under the strict surveillance of a keeper. Discountenance crime by all the moral and social influences which can be brought to counteract its prevalence, and visit on the heads of those who commit offenses, the most rigorous penalties of the law, but wring all the public benefits possible from it. Let those who choose to embark in that career, learn that they must work for their passages.

SEE BELOW.—An announcement was made in the columns of the OREGONIAN a short time since to the effect that preliminary arrangements were being effected between Capt. Ankeny and the Western Union Telegraph Company and Wells, Fargo & Co., for the erection of a large brick edifice at the corner of A and North First streets, which would be used as offices conjointly by both these companies. As yet we are unable to impart anything definite. We are informed, however, that a plat of the exact locality where the proposed building is to stand, particulars as to the shape of the lot, etc., was sent below to San Francisco a few weeks ago. The plans and specifications, and the division of the room between the two offices, will have to be settled by the Express and Telegraph Companies. Definite information in reference to the matter may be anticipated soon.

RAILING NEEDED.—The necessity of a good substantial railing, to extend on each side of the plank roadway at the foot of L street, in East Portland, from the water to the point where the ferry touches, was forcibly demonstrated by the narrow escape from a serious accident near the landing yesterday. Where the railroad leaves Water street, it is some distance from the ground on each side for several rods westward. There is nothing to obstruct the passage of a wagon over the edge, should the team become frightened or collide with another. Such a contingency ought certainly to warrant the trifling outlay sufficient to put up a railing.

CHRISTMAS TIDE.—Christmas is moving apace and we hear of busy preparations among the different church denominations for having the customary "tree" for the delectation of the little folks. As usual there will be a great many family feasts at family residences. The North Portland M. E. Sunday School have taken the initiative in the matter, and have already completed arrangements for having a Christmas tree at their hall on the corner of Ninth and C streets. The time will be announced next week.

NORTH PORTLAND SUNDAY SCHOOL.—We learn that the North Portland M. E Sunday School having outgrown its late quarters at the North Portland Public School building, will, on Sunday, for the first time, occupy the new hall on the corner of Ninth and C streets, which has been rented for the purpose. This school has been steadily on the increase, especially during the past season, in that on last Sabbath the Secretary a roll showed an attendance of 72 teachers and scholars.

THE FIRST BOAT TO GO THROUGH.—The steamer Cowie, which has been occasionally in the service of the Lock Company, will be the first boat to pass through the Locks. She will make the passage through with an excursion party, consisting of the men employed on the work and such others as they see proper to invite.

STEAMER CALIOPE.—We are informed that parties in this city are negotiating with the Willamette Freighting Co for the purchase of the steamer Caliope, if satisfactory arrangements can be made. She will be brought through the locks and placed on the lower river trade.

COPPER.—Two and a quarter tons of pure copper, in the button, were shipped on Wednesday evening by the Dalles boat. It came from Cupperown, Baker county, and was taken from the mines owned by Crane & Co. This metal will be sent to San Francisco on the next steamer.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Annie Swartz and Bill Lancaster were arraigned before Justice Ry on yesterday, each charged with assault and battery. Defendants were fined $5 and cost, and on payment discharged.

SCHOOL TAXES.—The school taxes for this district are coming in quite lively now. Tax payers are allowed until the first of January in which to circulate. Nearly half the assessments have been promptly paid in already.

TOWING BARGES.—The steamer Maria Hall has been employed at Vancouver in towing rock and forth barges between the wharf and the park. Sea Trade. The bark has out in the stream and is receiving her cargo by lighters.

CASTINGS.—Twenty five hundred pounds of castings will be shipped below to Astoria this morning, to be used in the construction of a new building at Cape Disappointment.

LECTURE.—Mrs. A J. Dunlway will lecture on next Sunday evening. Her subject will be "Amusements, Their Uses and Abuses."

ENGINE OVERHAULED.—It was determined by the City Council at its last meeting, to have the old hand fire engine, formerly used by Protection Engine Company No 1, before the present steam engine was purchased for that company, thoroughly overhauled and put in condition to render effective service. The valves will be replaced by new ones, the pumping apparatus gone over and repaired wherever necessary. New suction hose will be purchased, and the old engine put in the best possible trim. The engine will be used in case one of the regular engines becomes unfit for duty, and will temporarily take the place of such disabled engine. Also in the emergency of a general conflagration, in which all the engines of the Department may be required to be brought into play. In the meantime, after the old engine is ready to report for service, it will be sold at any time should parties offer to purchase it on advantageous terms to the city.

FIREMEN'S BADGES.—The new badges for the Portland Fire Department have been finished and will be ready for distribution after the meeting of the Board of Delegates to morrow night. The badge is very neatly gotten up, being of metal in shape, made of bronze, and has a chased border. It is about 2½ of an inch in length, by 2 in width. The words "Portland Fire Dep't" in raised letters are wrought upon it. The manner of fastening it is similar to that for ordinary breast pins, and will make a gorgeous ornament for the "boys" to wear on Sunday.

THE LIQUOR LAW.—The Advocate says the Young Men's Christian Association of this city have appointed a committee to enforce the Sunday law, in this city, so we are informed, and we are glad to note it, for it seems to be entirely proper for this Association, representing as it does, most of the religious denominations of the city, to attend to the matter, otherwise, what is everybody's business is nobody's business, and the law remains as it has been, a dead letter on our statute books.

CHURCH FINISHED.—The alterations and improvements which have been in progress on the interior of the new Lutheran Church, are completed. The painting and plastering have just been finished. The staging will speedily be removed from the room, and the debris cleared out. Seats and pulpit will soon adorn the auditorium. Service will be held in the church next Sunday, for the first time since repairs were begun.

CAPSIZED.—One of the street cars capsized yesterday at the northern terminus of the track, near the west side depot. The car had been run on the turn table, but in swinging around the horse pulled at right angles and drew the car off the platform. Two ladies were in the car at the time, but fortunately escaped uninjured. The car was righted at once, placed on the track, and things progressed uninterruptedly.

AT EUGENE CITY.—The Circuit Court for Lane county is now in session at Eugene City. The case of State vs Miller, under indictment for the killing of Cherokee Smith last August, was to have commenced on Wednesday morning. J. F. Caples, Esq., of this city is now in attendance on the Court, having been retained as assistant counsel for the prosecution.

EXCELSIOR LODGE K OF P.—This new lodge has now a membership of forty. They have obtained off nights for meetings in the new building being constructed by the Good Templar's Hall Association. One of the members has been dispatched to San Francisco to obtain the charter and such paraphernalia to fit up the hall.

AT SALT LAKE.—We notice by an exchange that Mr. S. A Clark of the Willamette Farmer, was at Salt Lake City a few weeks ago. He was traveling as special correspondent of the Sacramento Union, and was engaged in collecting materials for letters.

RETURNED.—Bishop Morris returned to this city a few days ago from Victoria, overland via Olympia. The Bishop was present and officiated in the dedicatory services of the new Episcopal Church in that place, and also delivered the consecration sermon.

RETURNED.—Rev. J F. Anderson, pastor of A. M. E. Zion Church of this city, has returned from a missionary tour through the Wallamet and Umpqua valleys. He will preach at the church on Third between B and C, on next Sabbath at the usual hours.

VENIRE.—A venire of 24 trial jurors has been ordered by the U. S. Circuit Court, made returnable on next Monday, on which day a jury case will be called.

COURTS.—The U. S. Circuit Court will convene this morning at the usual hour. The U. S. District Court will meet again on next Tuesday morning.

RESIGNED.—We learn that Mr Eugene Semple has recently tendered his resignation as Secretary and one of the Directors of the Portland Bridge Company. The resignation is in consequence of a contemplated visit to the East, whither Mr Semple has been called on business.

TO BE SOLD.—A meeting was held at Oregon City on last Tuesday evening by the Directors of the Woolen Mills to take into consideration the project of refurbishing at that place. No definite conclusion was arrived at and the meeting adjourned.

DEFERRED.—Although the new Episcopal Church at Kalama has been finished, several weeks ago, and is ready for service, the dedication of the building will be deferred for the present in consequence of the weather.

AT CEMENTVILLE.—The schooner Emma Augusta arrived in the river a few days since from San Francisco in ballast. She will load at Cementville with lumber.

CASE CONTINUED.—In Justice Ryan's Court the case of the State vs Wm Mills, arrested for assault and battery, was continued until to day at 1 o'clock.

JUNCTION.—A new jibboom has been put in the Channel Light in place of the one broken by the collision. This vessel was towed down the river yesterday.

DUE.—The steamer Ajax will be due at this port from San Francisco to morrow evening.

With pleasure we refer our readers to the advertisement of that old established house of L. C Henrichsen & Co, who have opened a beautiful line of watches, chains, diamonds and other articles that make a complete jewelry establishment. A look through their immense stock will prove a source of gratification to the visitor.

Small and great will be delighted by calling at Ainslie & Hegele's and making an examination of their holiday goods. A list of all their nice things would fill a column. They name a few of them in a new advertisement to day.

Many of the draymen employed by the Oregon Transfer Company were in attendance at the funeral of one of the attaches of the Company yesterday—this accounts for the lull in traffic.

Workmen were engaged yesterday in putting in the end of the track just north of the Company's office foot of F street. The rails are turned up so that when a car runs to the end, there is no jar, but it is gently depressed to the level.

We observed yesterday a mule which was being led through the streets. The animal certainly had the opinionitis, or a most exalted opinion of itself, for its head was much larger than its whole body. It was a clear case of the "swell-head."

The correct thing to do when invited to an apres midi, if you are unable to go personally, is to send your card, omitting the word "regrets." The card in this case is not an apology, but a representative, and the sender, though absent in body, is present in spirit.

AMUSEMENTS.

The benefit concert tendered Mr. George A. Buchanan by the members of the East Portland brass band, will come off this evening at the Odd Fellows' Hall.

The grand classic concert given under the joint leadership of Professors Nowell and Yeradley, and assisted by the members of the Baptist choir, and other leading amateurs, will be given this evening at the First Baptist Church. A rare feast of classic music is promised those who attend.

The Coriell Vaudeville Troup opened last evening at Ore Fino Theater to a good house. The performance consisted of the usual minstrel performance which was well received by the audience. The witticisms are very good and enjoy an entire absence from coarseness or vulgarity. The performance last evening was really of an excellent character, and ought to be well patronized. The troupe will appear to-morrow at the matinee and also in the evening. We can cheerfully commend the troupe to the patronage of the public.

Crosbie, that inimitable mirth provoker, who has given this public so many hearty laughs at his funny sayings and ludicrous situations, will take a benefit this evening at the theater. It is needless to urge the people to turn out, for they are certain to do that anyhow. Mr. Crosbie is too well known to require any commendation at our hands. A splendid bill is to be offered on the occasion, as follows: The burlesque of "Ernani or the Horn of a Dilemma," written by Crosbie, himself, a champion bone solo by Charles Coriell, song and dance by Messrs. Kearney and Griffin (amateurs); the whole performance to conclude with the three act comedy of "Taming the Shrew."

Why Endure What is Curable?

"What can't be cured must be endured," says the proverb; but indigestion can be cured, and therefore it is the merest stupidity to endure it. Dyspeptics have certainly a right to continue dyspeptics to the end of their days, if they choose, but as it is not supposed that any rational being prefers physical torment to ease and health, the probability is that if all sufferers from indigestion were convinced that an absolute, infallible remedy for their complaint existed, they would with one mind resort to it. We most emphatically declare that such a remedy does exist, and that its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The record of its success extends over a period of more than twenty years, and it is fearlessly alleged that during the whole of that time it has never failed to afford permanent relief in any disorder or derangement of the stomach that was not organic, malignant and incurable. The testimonials that go to establish this important fact can be counted by the dozen. Stomach complaints that had been aggravated by a total disregard of all dietary rules, and intemperance and rendered chronic by medicinal treatment or drastic purgation, have in thousands of instances been cured within three months by the systematic use of this celebrated stomachic and alterative. It should be remembered that weakness of the digestive organs involves many other ailments. Biliousness, headache, spasms, palpitation of the heart, nervous debility, rush of blood to the head, nausea, vertigo and sleeplessness are among its concomitants and results, and for all these the great vegetable tonic is a specific. It acts first upon the stomach and through the stomach upon the secretory and nervous systems and the bowels, the general effect being always genial and beneficent.

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.—1860—X.

The wonderful vegetable restorative is the shoot-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

CAUTION.—The genuine is wrapped in a fine Steel Plate engraving with "G. W. Westbrook, Chemist," and "Trade Mark, MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT," engraved across the face of each wrapper. Do the Angels Ever Come.

BY E. H. TAYLOR.

O! say do you think the Angels come
And hover around our beds,
And look with eyes of tenderness
Upon our pillowed heads!

Do they lay their hands upon our cheeks,
Do they kiss our eyelids down,
Do they brush from our fevered brow
The tangled locks and frowns?

Do they ever slip beneath our heads
Their spirit arms, and hold
The weary ones of earth awhile
Close, with a fervent fold?

Joaquin Miller Interview Again.

The Cincinnati correspondent of the Pittsburg Gazette has interviewed Joaquin Miller and the result is put down as follows

It was an erroneous one—my opinion of the poet of the Sierras—the poetical, not practical, being which my imagination had pictured was entirely at fault, and although a spirit of poetry seems to permeate his entire life and action, the practical man is brought out in a conversation which relates to every day subjects. He puts you at ease as soon as you become acquainted, adapted himself to circumstances, and is an excellent conversationalist upon any tropic. I was offered an excellent opportunity for observation After introducing myself as a representative of the Gazette, he remarked "I am very glad to see you, your health is pretty well?" Upon receiving affirmative assurance, he said

"I have one great enemy in Pittsburgh, and one great friend; which is which I do not know. One of the papers reviewed my book very kindly; the other did it base injustice.

Correspondent—"I understand, Mr Miller, that you have just returned from visiting some friends; do you feel too much fatigued to give me a short interview?"

Joaquin—"Not at all, sir. I have been visiting my cousins who reside near East Liberty; they have a small farm there, and there is a miniature community of Millers established—their hands are like files—hard and rough—but they are as honest as the day is long. Feel my hands,—they are rough too, look at those knuckles; large, are they not? I've worked. too—minjng."

The sentences came almost in jerks. The correspondent observed his hands, which were exceedingly large—and told of labor.

Correspondent—"There has always been an indescribable charm about California and that vicinity to me, and I should like very much to visit it."

Joaquin—"Ah! it is a beautiful country, and you will find when you go there that I have not over-drawn the picture. It has been my aim to paint it faithfully and clearly. The trees are beautiful, the lakes clear as crystal, the heavens seem to me more blue there than in any other country. The hills are brown, and the stars large as lilies—and the population is composed of true men—the truest and heaven God ever made; those who went there and settled years ago, were men of brave hearts." The onwards dared not risk the long voyage—and the weak died on the way."

Correspondent—Mr. Miller, I notice some severe criticisms on your poems. The public claim that Walker in your "With Walker in in Nicaragua," was only five feet six inches tall, when you say six feet.

Joaquin—"Well, now, that is really absurb, the public and I differing upon a few inches merely for the sake of criticism; am I not allowed any poetical license? Why, I have heard some say I was not at Nicargua at all. Here is my proof. Colonel Thomas (there he mentioned a gentleman who was busily engaged in straightening a voluminous correspondence) will tell you I was, he fought, I ran; he was a man, I a boy." The Colonel remarked that every word was true, and bent again to his work without seeming to notice the interruption.

Mr. Miller—"I wish you would go to California; it is the purest and most exhilerating climate in the world. There you may ride all day with no companions save your own thoughts and the angel spirits which constantly hover around us."

Correspondent—"You are not a spiritualist?"

Joaquin—"Do not misunderstand me. I am not a spiritualist who believes in the departed coming around knocking on dish pans tipping tables, chairs and such. My spirits inhabit a celestial world, are more refined, and elevated, more heavenly, and with their higher, nobler ambitions and thoughts, try to make our lives and thoughts correspond with theirs."

Correspondent—"You have no positive proof of any such existence?"

Joaquin—"You wish too much; you want to see them. I will tell you: Agassiz brings from the bottom of the sea, the smallest sediment; in it he finds the life which God gave to everything. You come further up into the sea; you find life there. Further and on land, life there; go into the air forty or fifty miles, what is there? Is there not life there, also, that purer atmosphere, is it not, too, inhabited? All this space around us is occupied by angels. Look here—you see this glass, you look into the street and see men, trees and horses, and (a figure of speech merely, as we looked at a blank wall—Cor.) There is no substance which can pass through that, without injuring it, and yet we can see through it. That is man's invention. Cannot the good God, in his infinite power, create a being which, retaining no visible form, may still be a substance to be seen only by the perfect perception?

Correspondent—"What are your religious sentiments or convictions?"

Joaquin—"I believe in Christ but not in creeds. His was a glorious character, and how much better are we when we endeavor to imitate his estimable example—whether any divinity attached to him I am not wise enough to know; but if he were living now, I do not doubt that he would go among the poor doing good. He who doubts the existence of a God, I pity. I do not call him fool, but pity him. What more evidence can we want than our existence.

"To whom was your book dedicated, Mr Miller, your wife or your daughter?" inquired the correspondent.

Joaquin—"To Maud—little Maud, she is a beautiful girl. I wish you could see her. I have no wife now. When I was a candidate for Judge in California she applied for a divorce, and I granted one; informed her that I would make no defense. I immediately started for Europe. I have never sought a sensational character, but I have endeavored to keep it down. Among the English I was treated as a man and honored, but in America I have been subjected to torrents of vituperation and the basest calumny. What is it against me? Am I not honest? Am I drunken? Do I lie, gamble, or anything like them? No. What can they bring against me? Nothing. I make no defense in regard to my wife's statements. She is a woman, and as such, I can do nothing else than respect her If she chooses to live in this way she may, she is a woman and can fight her own way. I love all women; there is something ennobling about them. Do you not love them?"

The correspondent made a remark to the effect that he preferred to worship them at a distance; acquaintance usually dispelled the charm about a beautiful women—and then continued.

"There is also some criticism on your "Kit Carson's Ride," Mr. Miller. In one place you mention his having cast aside all things, riding bare back, and then raising himself in his saddle."

Joaquin—"No, No —You are mistaken.

> We drew in the lassoes, seized bridle and rein,
> Threw them on, cinched them on, cinched them over again and again,
> Over the girth o'er aside the macheeros,
> Cut away the lapidaros loosed the sash from its fold
> Cast aside the cantoons, red spangled with gold

There is your saddle; I say cast aside the numerous trappings but still retaining the saddle. I have one down stairs—carry it with me to ride—a five hundred dollar saddle, presented to me."

The Colonel who had sat in silence deeply meditative came forward with a Cuban bond for our inspection After remarking upon its artistic beauty, Mr. Miller said: "There is a history back of that bond which the interviewer is supposed to have—I expect I shall send in Cuba."

Colonel—"Yes, get about as far as New Orleans and then stop."

The two men began talking in Spanish and the interviewer had the deep sagacity to remain silent and take no part in the conversation; they spoke like natives and he would not display his ignorance.

Mr Miller remarked something about being well. The correspondent presumed that he received ample compensation for his literary productions

Joaquin—"I do not suppose that there is a better paid poet in the world than I No one ever, to my knowledge, received $2,000 for a single poem, as I did It is my intention to confine my writings as much as possible I travel to educate myself and find it expands the thought wonderfully"

The correspondent asked for an autograph, remarking that we lived in an age of hero worship, and a memorial of this kind would be preserved as a souvenir of an illustrious personage

The poet remarked that it would afford him pleasure to give me a dozen if I wished, but such generosity I would not hear of They are these "Very truly yours, Joaquin Miller," "Faithfully your friend, Joaquin Miller," and, "To Mr When you come to california, stay a month, and I will teach you to ride and shoot Faithfully your friend, Joaquin Miller"

A HARD ANSWER —At a recent trial the counsel for the prosecution, after severely cross-examining a witness, suddenly put on a look of severity, and exclaimed:

"Now, sir, was not an effort made to induce you tell a different story ?"

"A different story from what I have told, do you mean ?"

"That's what I mean."

"Yes, sir, several persons have tried to get me to tell a different story from what I have told, but they couldn't"

"Now, sir, upon your oath, I wish to know who these persons are."

"Well, you've tried about as hard as any of them."

He was questioned no further on that point.

A FIGHTING WIDOW.—Telfair county, Georgia, boasts of a lady—widow of a Confederate soldier—who is very social in a small row. A pedagogue living on her land threatened to wallop her recently and pretty soon thereafter attempted to carry out his threat He was the worst fooled man in the Union. The widow knocked him down and walked all over him, then she set him up on his feet and jerked him out of his socks, then she snatched him bald-headed, and finally wound up the ceremony by paddling him with a board until he had the hysterics.

Who are the most exacting of all landlords? Why, children, because they never fail to make their own fathers and mothers parents.

Pine Ships Building

On the 19th of November the new iron steamer Colon, built at Chester, Pennsylvania, for the Pacific Mail Company, was launched in the presence of thousands of deeply interested spectators The Colima, sister ship to the Colon, will be launched some time during the current month, and both will be delivered ahead of contract time. The Colon is reported by the correspondent for the Nautical Gazette, which is first class authority in naval matters, as being in some respects, the most perfect vessel afloat in our waters The engine, boilers and entire motive power of the ship are inclosed within iron bulkheads extending from the floors to the hurricane deck; and are beyond the reach of either fire or water. The Colon is 300 feet in length, with 40 feet beam and 30 feet 6 inches depth of hold. She is a four decker of 3,224 tons measurement, and has a carrying capacity of 6,000 tons Her machinery is first-class, the engine being of the compound order, with cylinders 51 and 93 inches in diameter, and 42 inch stroke of piston She is supplied with four boilers, 9 feet 9 inches in length, and 13 feet in diameter, connected with one smokestack. Each boiler is made of 13-16 inch boiler iron, and is capable of supporting a working pressure of 70 pounds to the square inch In the matter of appointments for passengers, the Colon is inferior to no steamer afloat Her name and that of her sister ship, the Colima, indicate that they will be placed on the Panama line. The Colima is slightly larger than the Colon, being 12 feet longer and 7 feet deep er in the hold. Too other two ships building for the Pacific Mail Company will be 421 feet long, 47 feet beam, and 37 feet 9 inches depth of hold, or 121 feet longer than the Colon, 7 feet wider, and 7 feet deeper They are not yet named, but will probably receive appellation suitable to the Japan and China line, on which they will be placed.

The Jobbing Trade

A leading dealer remarked to us to day that the week had been as dull as any we have had since last spring and yet we find merchants generally in a fairly cheerful condition of mind in regard to the prospect of the winter trade. Under the close money market at this season of the year, when the fall trade has about closed and the winter trade scarcely begun, our jobbing business could not, with good reason, be expected to be very active. We hear of but few orders from the interior coming to hand, and these mostly to fill up incomplete stocks and for seasonable goods for the holiday trade. During the week, prices in the dry goods and grocery line have ruled steady and are correctly given below

Miscellaneous.

On the 28th of November, the Bank of England Directors held their weekly meeting and reduced the rate to 6 per cent, giving indication of a return flow of gold to the vaults of that institution, and probable relaxation in the demands from Germany The market was easier at last mail dates, and that of New York sympathized with it.

Few people are cognizant of the fact that 41,000 tons of iron steamships have been, or will be, built in the yards of the Delaware within one year, and furthermore that 34,000 tons of the whole are intended for foreign trade.

Home Produce Market.

During the week under review, the changes occurring have been from time to time noticed, and their probable effect on the market discussed Business has for the most part in this line been dull, and while the grain market has made some advances, transactions have been limited The several changes noted in the California market have had the effect only to produce an excited condition in our local trade, and render both buyers and sellers more cautious in making transactions. The former maintaining or at least fearing that the rise is neither permanent nor healthy, and the latter adhering to the hope that still further advances will take place

WHEAT —Beyond ordinary receipts, here to-fore purchased, but little has been done to day, though the quantity bought up in the interior during the week has aggregated pretty large, mostly at the rate of about $1 47½ per cental delivered in sacks Producers having advices of the California market, are not inclined to sell at this figure more than enough to obtain necessary funds for other business purposes, and shippers knowing the same state of affairs cannot see how any further advance can be made with safety to themselves and do not seem to care much about buying Hence without other development in the unsettled condition of the market we retain our quotations of $1 45@1 50 with the statement that the latter price can be obtained for large lots while smaller parcels might pass at the same only with more difficulty There is perhaps more firmness in the market to-day than for the past three days of the week The Nineveh cleared with a little over 16 000 centals which together with 5 bales of blankets were valued at $25,000. The Channel Light has nearly completed her cargo The Victoria Jayanne will be ready to receive cargo within ten days—she will have quick dispatch Liverpool quotations are 12s to 12s 6d for average lots

OATS —The last steamer left a quantity which had been offered for shipment and under the advance noted in San Francisco receipts have increased so that now the stock in hands of shippers is beyond the opportunities for unloading. Sales are dull and but small lots are changing hands at the time of writing We give quotations at about 65 cents per bushel as the extreme figure for choice with sacks extra of $1 62½ per central for 1,000 bushels more refused this morning

FLOUR —Although the market shows no direct tendency to advance under the advices denoting a rise in San Francisco there is a degree of hopefulness on the part of shippers who have a full stock on hand and are not anxious for orders at the prevalent rates, wishing to await results in the market and be ready to take advantage of any advance which may take place Quotations now are as several brands of Oregon Flour as No. 1 in the line and we have lived to see the day when Calif's rule is compelled to acknowledge our equality with, if not superiority to her, in many products prominent among which are our Flour and Wheat Some difficulty was encountered in consequence of the jealousy of California in getting first lots on the market, but now our shippers are independent, and the quality of our product being well known, it ranks high everywhere The shipments during the past week have aggregated about 8,000 bbls to San Francisco and the North We quote the market to day firm $5 for extra Standard brands, choice country, $4 25@4 75, outside and superfine, $3 75@4 ⅌ bbl

BARLEY With a fair demand for home consumption, we note a no increase in receipts Some lots have changed hands during the past few days, figures varying as to quality from $1 40@1 60 ⅌ 100 lbs The crop this year was light, and no surplus is on hand.

FEED—A good demand exists and thoroughly is abundant, making the trade fairly active. We give quotations as firm at $15 ⅌ ton for Bran and $25@30 for Chops and Middlings The call for the local trade is reported brisk.

POTATOES—Prices are firm at 55@60c ⅌ bushel A very good demand prevails, and some shipments are being made The amount in the hands of jobbers is small

ONIONS—The receipts so far this week have been small, and prices have stiffened up somewhat We quote them at 3c and common at 2@2½c ⅌ lb

PROVISIONS—The quantity on hand is fully adequate to supply the demand for home consumption, while the current portion to the market is not making demand for its justify any general shipment

LARD—In kegs is freely offered at 12½c ⅌ lb, sales 1 ⅌ 1434, hams 16@18c

BUTTER—The market is fairly supplied with the different qualities which are numerous Quotations range from 25@30c for good and 40@45c ⅌ lb for choice roll for the season.

EGGS—We make no change in the market which is fairly supplied Jobbing lots are at 40@42½c ⅌ doz.

POULTRY—The supply is fair with some disposition to advance the rates We quote spring Chicken at $3 @3 50 per doz Turkeys $12@15, Geese $10@12, Ducks $3@4.

APPLES—Receipts are very fair and the demand for home use is full Prices rule, as to quality, 60@75c per box

HIDES—A fair demand has increased receipts and prices are firm at 6c ⅌ lb for green 7@8c for salted and 15@16c for dry

WOOL—There is but little doing and aside from a sale of four tons reed, clean at 42½c ⅌ lb we hear of no transactions Fallback quality is quoted nominally at 35c.
